DECREASE FIRST 4 MONTHS

Marriage Licenses Fall Short of Last Year.

Although this is leap year the marriage license record shows a decrease in marriages over the first four months of last year. There were forty-two licenses issued the first four months of 1912 as against forty-three for the same period last year. Being only one short of last year is not so bad and leap year may take a brace and set a record before the year is out. The month of April just passed shows an increase of one over the month last year. This year there were eleven licenses and last year ten.

JESSE PUGH HOME TO STAY 'TIL JUNE

Head of Redpath Company Returns After 26 Weeks' Tour in Many Parts of United States.

WILL APPEAR AT CHAUTAUQUA

After a tour in many parts of the United States which continued for twenty-six weeks, Jesse Pugh of this city, head of the Jesse Pugh Company of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau is home for a vacation to remain until June. At that time his company will start out to fill a number of engagements on the chautauqua circuit. The company will be at the Rush county chautauqua this year for two days. This will be the first opportunity of Rush county people to hear the local man since he has made good on the lyceum stage.

But it will not be the original company with which Mr. Pugh started that will be heard here. Mr. Pugh has received notice from the Redpath people that two new girls will join his company at the beginning of the chautauqua tour to take the place of the two who have been taken from his company. They will be with him on the next winter's tour also. This is the first time Mr. Pugh has been home for seventeen weeks for any length of time.

Six stitches were taken in the left arm. All the wounds were above the wrist.

TAKES AN EARLY ADJOURNMENT

Grand Jury Exhausts List of Witnesses Summoned For Harris Inquiry About 3 O'clock.

WILL BEGIN AT 9 IN MORNING

Not More Than Dozen Persons Are Examined Today—Herman Miller Last on Stand.

The grand jury adjourned shortly after three o'clock, after working all day on the Harris case, until in the morning at nine o'clock. The cause for the early adjournment was the fact that the list of witnesses which had been summoned was exhausted.

Mrs. Will Wallace of this city, a relative of Mrs. L. B. Harris, was summoned to testify today, but did not arrive until after three o'clock when the grand jury had adjourned and will have to give her evidence later.

Not over ten or a dozen witnesses were examined today so far as could be learned. Most of the people who gave their testimony were neighbors living in the vicinity of Ashland farm. Herman Miller, formerly of that neighborhood, who was a very close friend of the Harris' was the last witness this afternoon.

Mrs. Jim Alexander, who lives on a farm adjoining Ashland farm, and whose husband was one of the two first men to reach the scene of the fire, was on the witness stand today. It is said that she is a very important witness.

Mrs. Cory Kiser of the Gings neighborhood gave her testimony before the grand jury today. Jim McConnell of the same vicinity testified also.

John Hill, colored, of this city, who was formerly employed by L. B. Harris on the farm, was one of today's witnesses. Clarence Lucas, a farm laborer on the farm of Bert Eakins, who lives northwest of the scene of the tragedy, testified.

BALL PLAYER AND A WIDOW ELOPE

Laird Hanna, Local Printer, For-sakes Wife and Leaves With Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis.

POLICE AID WILL BE SOUGHT

Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, widow of John Lewis, who died last August of typhoid fever, eloped with Laird Hanna, a local printer, who came here six weeks ago, last night, according to reports which were circulated today. Late this afternoon Mrs. Hanna was in search of the police to prefer charges of wife desertion against Hanna and ask the aid of the police in locating him.

Hanna and his wife were married March 15 of this year at Paris, Kentucky. They came here from Richmond, Ky., six weeks ago and Hanna took a job in a Rushville print shop. Hanna was touted as one of the most promising candidates for the proposed base ball team here. He told that he was given a try-out with the Brooklyn Nationals last year and was farmed out to Chattanooga, Tenn.

Hanna and Mrs. Lewis left at 9:50 last night over the C. H. & D. Their destination was unknown. They sent their baggage to go at 5:55 over the same road.

MORE CHILDREN IN RUSHVILLE

Report of City Enumerators Indicates an Increase of 48—Only Two of Foreign Birth

16 EMPTY HOUSES IN THE CITY

James G. Miller Will Likely be Re-elected Truant Officer by Trustees Monday.

The trustees of the townships in Rush county will meet with County Superintendent C. M. George next Monday to name a truant officer and to make their reports of the school enumeration. Five school units have already reported. In three of these units a gain is shown and in the other two a loss is revealed, as compared with the reports last year.

James G. Miller, the present incumbent, is the only candidate for the truant officer's position. It is very probable that he will be re-elected by acclamation, especially in view of the fact that he has been an excellent officer.

A. R. Holden, member of the city school board, who with his daughter, Miss Laura, has been taking the school enumeration in Rushville, completed his report this afternoon. It reveals there are 1245 children of school age in the city, as against 1197 last year, which indicates a gain of 48. The increase in white children for the year is 55 and the decrease of colored children 7.

There are 617 white females and 585 white males, the majority of females being 32. There are 24 colored males and 19 females, a majority of 5 males. What is considered remarkable is the fact shown in the report that there are only two school children of foreign birth in Rushville, with a population of over 5000. One of these is an Italian and the other a Russian.

There are 782 children of compulsory school age—six to fourteen years—in Rushville, according to the report. Of this number 753 are white and 29 are colored. The city enumerators visited 1419 families, which indicates there is an average of less than one child between six and twenty-one years to each family.

A surprising fact concerning the statistics gathered by the city enumerators is that there are only sixteen empty houses in the city of Rushville. The report says most of these are vacant because of high rental.

A. R. Holden and his daughter desire to thank the people of Rushville for the courteous treatment they have received. Many people had their report all ready for the enumerators when they called, and this was very much appreciated.

The report of the Carthage school enumeration for this year shows a loss of six as compared with last year. This year there are 220 children of school age and last year there were 226. There were 47 colored children last year and this year there are only 42 in that place.

The enumeration in Ripley township for 1912 indicates a gain of 22 over that of 1911. Last year there were 277 and this year there are 293.

There are 10 colored children in the township this year as compared to 9 last year.

The report of the Walker township enumerator shows a gain of 8. The children of school age in the township this year number 327 and last year 319. There are no colored children of school age in the township.

Posey township has experienced a loss of 11. There are only 372 children of school age this year as against 383 last year. The report shows that there are no colored children of school age in the township.

JOHN BROWN'S DOG IMITATES MASTER

He Chews Tobacco, and Only One Certain Brand, Too, Just as John Does.

HE MAY BE TAUGHT TO SING

John Brown, the I & C. electrician, has a little black and white dog everyone calls "Brownie." It is as much as "Brownie" has the name of his master, he attempts to imitate his ways in so far as he can. One of the habits of Brown which his pet has acquired is that of chewing tobacco. "Brownie" chews it like a veteran. He likes his chew after a meal because he enjoys it most then.

But the sensible little canine has a peculiarity to such a degree that it might be called an eccentricity. He chews only one brand. It is that his master uses. He has refused all others time and again when friends of Brown have attempted to disprove the theory that "Brownie" will not follow the habits of his master always. The dog will always sit up for a chew of his kind of tobacco, and even refuses such things as delicious chocolate drops.

John has been reading about singing dogs in other parts of Indiana, and he has about concluded to try his dog's voice out, since he appears to be so sensible. He may give the pup a course of instruction in music.

NAMES WATSON AS COMPROMISE

Editor of Paris (Ill.) Beacon takes Up Suggestion of W. R. McKeen, in Terre Haute Star interview.

PAYS FINE TRIBUTE TO WATSON Declares Former Congressman is in Every Respect, of Full Presidential Size—Present Conditions.

The editor of the Paris, Illinois, Beacon, an evening newspaper, would have James E. Watson of this city nominated for president by the Republican party. The name of the former congressman was first suggested as a compromise candidate by W. R. McKeen, of Terre Haute, in the Terre Haute Star.

The suggestion of Mr. McKeen that Indiana has a "favorite son" who can be supplied as a compromise candidate, and who is amply qualified for taking up such duty, was taken up by the editor of the Paris Beacon, and in last evening's edition, it was the subject of a very illuminative editorial which is as follows:

The situation now confronting the Republican party, as the result of the bitter fight being waged between President Taft and his predecessor, Col. Roosevelt, is one that is fraught with possibilities of disaster. The line of cleavage between the two candidates is so sharply drawn and the feeling engendered so uncompromisingly hostile, that the nomination of either would undoubtedly make the loss of the fall election an unpleasant probability. It is a fact too patent to admit of argument that neither candidate can win, if nominated, without the support of the forces now arrayed in opposition and whether or not that support would be available, is at present a matter of extreme doubt. There is no element of compromise in the attitude of the candidates, each of whom is dedicating his whole time and energy to the exploitation of "harmony with an ax" and it seems almost inconceivable that out of such a situation could be evolved any common fighting ground, that would afford a reasonable expectation of success in November, should either be named as the standard bearer of the party.

The Beacon believes now, as it has always believed that President Taft is entitled to a renomination. It is also convinced, that if nominated, his chances of election would be greatly superior to those of his opponent, for the fact has been repeatedly demonstrated, beginning with 1896, that no candidate for the presidency can hope to succeed who does not command the confidence and support of the men who rank as leaders in the commercial and industrial world. That the candidacy of Mr. Roosevelt is viewed with distrust and apprehension in that quarter, is too evident to require argument and that his election would usher in a period of industrial stagnation, if not actual panic, amounts to a practical certainty. The country can ill afford to undergo that kind of an experience, for the sake of experimentation along lines that are to the last degree socialistic and visionary.

As between the two candidates, therefore, Mr. Taft is in far the better position to command the support essential to success, but if the situation as now developing, shall reach that stage of internecine strife where the nomination of either candidate shall appear to be suicidal it may, and probably will follow, that the sober judgment of a controlling element within the party will turn to the choice of a dark horse, as was done in 1880, when a similar situation continued on page eight.

WET GOODS WERE NOT CONFISCATED

Kokomo Police Let Saloon Men Down Easy.

THEY SAVED THEIR STOCKS

The Twenty Saloons That Were Put Out of Business by Supreme Court's Ruling Were Permitted to Return Their Goods to Wholesalers Instead of Having It Poured Out, as Law Would Have Sanctioned.

Kokomo, Ind., May 1.—Under the terms of an agreement to which the Kokomo saloon men, the police department and the attorneys for the "dry" organization are parties, the stocks of liquor in Kokomo's twenty saloons, which were put out of business by the supreme court decision, will not be seized by the authorities and destroyed, provided they are moved from the city forthwith. Every saloon in the city is hustling its bottle and barrel goods to the freight stations and shipping them back to the wholesale houses, the wholesalers having agreed to take back all unbroken and undamaged stock at the price paid for it. In many cases it is the only chance the wholesalers have to save themselves from loss, for many of the saloon men are broke and unable to pay any part of their obligations to the wholesalers.

At first there was talk of confiscating all the liquor stock, some of the more radical "drys" urging that the liquors be seized and poured into the sewers. Under the law, it is said, this could have been done, but in order to save the saloon men, who are already hard hit by the loss of their business, from further loss, it was decided they could turn their stocks back to the wholesalers.

SOME LODGE, THIS

Its Members Were to Be Custodians of Means of Endless Wealth.

Indianapolis, May 1.—For the return to Adams county, this state, of E. O. McLish, or Ode McLish, as he was known at Decatur, where he operated, Governor Marshall has issued requisition papers on the governor of Ohio. McLish, according to a report from Decatur, operated a get-rich-quick scheme which was to induce men with money to join a "lodge" which he represented owned an original government plate for printing bank notes. The plan as outlined by McLish was to keep the plate in possession of the lodge, strike off the "money," and have it disposed of through lodge agents, none of the persons asked to join being asked to handle any of the counterfeit stuff. When a man joined he was asked to contribute from $400 to $500. Several men in and about Decatur were induced to join. One of them, Daniel Cook, subscribed to the affidavit on which the requisition was based.

Operating with McLish was Girt Reynolds of Decatur, who was sentenced to prison a month ago for complicity. Will Ward, also of Decatur, is under indictment for complicity. It is estimated that McLish cleaned up about $10,000 in Adams county. He was arrested at Payne, O.

DETECTIVE KILLED

Murderous Tramps Resist Arrest in Railway Yards at Princeton.

Princeton, Ind., May 1.—Harry Murphy, aged thirty-six, a Southern railway detective, was murdered supposedly by tramps in the railway yards here. His body, with bullets through the breast and groin, was found. The bullet marks indicated he had gone into an abandoned car to chase out some tramps, and that they had fired a number of times before he could draw his revolver.

No arrests have been made. Murphy was looking for men who had burned several abandoned cars. He was unmarried and lived with his mother in St. Louis.

Sought Gas Leak With Match.

Shelbyville, Ind., May 1.—The house of Mrs. Ellen Ensminger was blown off its foundation by an explosion of gas, and Mrs. Maggie Arbuckle was so badly burned that she died. Mrs. Arbuckle smelled gas and she opened the cellar door in the kitchen, struck a match and the explosion occurred. Her clothing caught fire. The house was twisted six inches out of place and is a complete wreck.

Gave Him a Life Sentence.

Lagrange, Ind., May 1.—Herman Algood, a laborer, living on a farm in Van Buren township, was charged with assaulting his nine-year-old daughter. When arraigned before Judge Drake he entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Michigan City penitentiary.

Kills Two During Quarrel in Saloon. Bicknell, Ind., May 1.—John Gaither, former deputy marshal, and Zay Dant were shot and almost instantly killed by Frank Hooper, forty years old, in Chris Moroska's saloon. Hooper had revived an old quarrel with Gaither, and when told to "shut up," pulled a revolver and fired four times. He is in jail.

BIG COMBINE IS OBJECT OF SUIT

Government Is Taking Action Against Harvester Trust.

COMPLAINT FILED AT ST. PAUL

Alleging That the McCormicks and Others Had Entered Into a Combination of Industrial Forces to Throttle Competition in Their Particular Line of Trade, a Dissolution of the Trust is Asked For.

St. Paul, May 1.—In the United States district court here the federal government's suit in equity for the dissolution of the International Harvester company has been filed. The government asks for an injunction restraining the trust from engaging in interstate commerce until legally competitive conditions are restored, or if this method is not deemed advisable by the court, for the appointment of a receiver to take over the assets of this $140,000,000 corporation and bring about its dissolution.

The petition charges that the International Harvester company controls 90 per cent of the harvesters, 75 per cent of the mowers, and 50 per cent of the binder twine manufactured and sold in this country.

"The object of this suit," the petition sets forth, "is to remove the restraint which the defendants herein have imposed on trade and commerce in agricultural machinery and implements, and more particularly upon commerce among the several states in harvesting machinery and binder twine."

The government's petition charges that the so-called trust has absolutely dominated the harvester machinery field since its organization, and since then has been endeavoring to obtain control of the retail business in agricultural implements by making exclusive contracts with retail dealers and binding them under penalties to sell only implements manufactured by the trust.

The government charges further that the trust concealed its ownership of the other plants which were acquired secretly and whose products were sold under representations of being the output of independent plants.

Coming as the climax to several years' investigation of the harvester "trust," this suit is minute in its details, multifold in its charges and specific in its names, dates and other data.

The International Harvester company, it claims, was fathered by Cyrus H. McCormick, Harold F. McCormick, Charles and James Deering, Richard F. Howe, William H. Jones, John J. Glessner, George W. Perkins, Charles Steele, Elbert H. Gary, George F. Baker, Norman B. Ream and "others who entered into and became a party to a combination in restraint of interstate trade and commerce in harvesting machinery, tools and implements and binder twine and monopolized trade and commerce."

These men, it declared, have been engaged ever since "in maintaining and perpetuating this illegal combination and have unlawfully attempted to monopolize interstate trade and commerce in agricultural machinery of all kinds."

REPORTS CONFLICT

Not Known How Many Lives Were Lost When Steamer Struck Mine.

London, May 1.—The loss of life by the sinking of the steamship Texas, as the result of striking a mine at the entrance to the Gulf of Smyrna, is not as yet definitely learned. While one report says 140 per cent, still another places the loss of life at sixty-six. Other reports place the loss of life at a still greater number.

At the time of the accident the Texas was flying the Turkish flag and was taking mail from Constantinople to other Turkish ports. Some time ago the company which owns the Texas was permitted to use the American flag, and this probably accounts for the first report, which stated that the wrecked vessel was from an American port. The Archipelago-American Steamship company, nevertheless, is largely controlled by American interests.

John M. Schenck, Fountaintown, Ind., recommends Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. He says "I was troubled with asthma about four years, so bad I could not sleep. I took everything I heard of for asthma and doctored also but got no relief until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It helped me from the first dose, and the continued use cured me. It is now a long time since I was cured, and I have no symptoms of a return of the disease." F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

(4.) Verse 21—When a good man is hungry or when he weeps, is he going through, for the time being, the best possible experience for him and is therefore blessed? Give your reasons.

(5.) If hunger is necessary in order to getting and enjoying food, and if weeping is an essential preparation for laughter, why are not these experiences blessed?

(6.) With the world and human nature constituted as at present, would it be a blessing or a curse, and why, if all hunger, weeping and other pain were impossible?

(7.) Verses 22-23—Wherein consists the blessedness of being hated for Jesus' sake?

(8.) Under painful circumstances, even when recognized as blessed, is it always possible to be joyful and happy? Why or why not?

(9.) If, for example, we are now suffering great pain, which is to result by and in infinite pleasure, why would not a realization of the truth make our hearts glad?

(10.) Verse 24—What is the one great penalty of riches?

(11.) What can you say for or against the statement that it is wicked to be rich and virtuous to be poor? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(12.) Verse 25—What is the great woe to those that, having plenty of food and worldly amusement, have no desire for spiritual joys?

(13.) Verse 26—Is it possible for a man who is well pleased to God to have all men speak well of him?

(14.) XVI:19-23—How is it that in all time some have been very rich and some very poor?

(15.) Which, and why, tends most to goodness, great poverty or great riches?

(16.) Why did the poor man go to heaven and the rich man to hell?

(17.) Why is there no necessary vice or virtue in being either rich or poor?

(18.) Verses 24-26—What does this story teach concerning any alleviation of the suffering of the lost?

(19.) Verses 27-31—Wesley and Knox were to come back to the earth and preach, would they win more people for Christ than they did when here before? Give your reasons.

A Year of Disasters.

The cyclone in Illinois and Indiana a few days ago adds to the list of great catastrophes of the year 1912, which is young. England, Germany and the United States have had strikes of large proportions in the past few months, those of England being the most destructive which any country ever saw. And so far as regards England and the United States they are not yet entirely over. A large part of the Mississippi Valley has been visited by the greatest flood ever seen, bringing the loss of life and property up to the highest figures ever touched. The greatest steamer ever built has recently gone down involving the biggest catastrophe in maritime annals. In the past few months railway wrecks have been es-specially numerous. The tornado which has destroyed several towns in States just east of us, is among the most destructive which the country has witnessed.

Wars greet us from many quarters. Italy and Turkey are still fighting, and though neither is making any headway, Italy is evidently getting more tired of the conflict than is Turkey. Mexico is staggering under a rebellion which may transform itself into revolution, for Madero is making no headway against Orozco or Zapatista, with intervention by the United States looming up as a possibility. There is some reason to believe that Madero would welcome intervention as a means of uniting his people, trusting the United States to leave the country intact when it stepped out. Royalists hover on Portugal's frontier, creating a fear in Lisbon that the republic's days will not be long in the land. China's republic is having trouble with an element of the republican armies, and the outlook there is not as satisfactory as was promised at the beginning of the year.

That the story from Greensburg about the chicken singing is about the biggest lie ever hatched.

Here are some of the calamities which have struck the world in 1912. And less than a third of the year has yet told its story. What will the record be when the whole twelve months chapter is made up? Usually the spring months make the worst record.

Floods on land inundate vast tracts of country, destroy property and life, and precipitate railway wrecks, while on the ocean it is the season which starts the big Northern ice fields on their travels. Hurricane and tornado disport themselves with especial freedom between winter's close and the advent of summer. The French Cassandra who, five or six months ago, predicted that 1912 would bring more physical and social convulsions than any year in recent times, and would see the deaths of a larger number of eminent men, may have deserved something different from the scoffs which the world gave her.

From the point of view of the majority of millionaires, Dr. D. K. Pearson, who gave away a fortune of $5,000,000 and died poor last week, was something of a foal, thus to quit the money getting game.

Yet we venture to say Dr. Pearson's money produced the most satisfactory results for the expenditure. It brought friendships and affection instead of jealousy and revilings.

It is hard to account for some people's tastes. After any man by earning a few million dollars has shown his superiority in the game of business, one would think that the strife of competition would lose most of its zest. The pennant winners of the National league would not find much fun in playing with a team of high school boys. They would get much more satisfaction out of standing on the side lines and helping the little fellows to improve their game.

That was Dr. Pearson's view of it. Having had all the fun he wanted out of money getting, he wished to help the other fellow to be more efficient. But the majority of American multi-millionaires seem still to enjoy playing a game in which the score is in the ratio of 10,000 to 1.

The time seems to have gone by when the politicians were willing to sit down on the Sabbath as they should and study Peloponnesian notes on the Sunday school lesson.

The stock market has been advancing through all this disturbing policies, but how else could the lambs be persuaded that it is feeding time inside the shearing pen?

It's all right to wear campaign buttons for your candidate, but much more effective to button-hole the voters and get them to attend the caucuses.

There may be a Republican split, but it won't seem very important after the Democrats as usual get their donkey headed off in the wrong direction.

A Wisconsin man has paid $6000 for a calf, and now the question is does he expect his wife to get along with a $6.00 hat?

Strange to say the sailors think they also should have luxuries like lifeboats.

The daily cracker consumption of the world would fill a train of cars extending from Baltimore to New York.

A single vessel recently carried ostrich feathers valued at $600,000 from South Africa to England.

As near as we can estimate it now no less than a hundred thousand people escaped death in the Titanic disaster by changing their plans and sailing at another date.

In all the high tide of spring poetry, our office eat never had such a severe case of indigestion as has been brought on by all this political literature she has had to consume.

There is a campaign in certain parts to simplify legal papers, which would be a great mistake, as then the public might know what they mean.

It is unfortunate, in view of the high cost of dolls and jumping-jacks that some men can be entertained by walking twenty miles to capture three or four tiny bass.

The Kokomo Tribune understands that the plan to build a liner that would extend half way from Liverpool and New York has been abandoned.

In view of the high cost of house building nowadays, it might be well to give the carpenter the lot and material before they begin.

State representative from Hancock county, was the choice of the organization committee for permanent chairman and Donald Smith of this city was made permanent secretary.

The resolutions indorsed by the convention were brief and simply indorsed the State platform as made by the Democratic State convention. A telegram from Finly Gray, addressed to Charles Beck was read to the convention. The telegram stated that due to the rush of business Congressman Gray would be unable to attend the congressional convention.

"The Store That Satisfies"

C. L. HENRY WILL HEAD COMMITTEE

President of I. & C. Appointed With

Two Others to Represent Indiana Electric Lines.

IN HEARING AT WASHINGTON

Will be Before Interstate Commerce Commission in Regard to Nine-Hour Working Law.

At a conference of electric railway men in Indianapolis yesterday a committee of three traction officials headed by Charles L. Henry, president and general manager of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company, was appointed to represent Indiana electric lines at a hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington tomorrow on the nine-hour working law as applied to trainmen.

Besides Mr. Henry the committee members are C. D. Emmons, South Bend, general manager of the Chicago, South Bend & Northern Indiana Traction Company, and W. G. Irwin, Columbus, president of the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction company.

The question to be discussed before the commission is whether the nine-hour law which governs the number of hours of service trainmen may work in a twenty-four hour period, applies to the electric roads the same as steam lines.

The traction officials contend that their lines should be exempt from this ruling and will be prepared to present their side of the case at the hearing.

The condition of train operation on electric roads are vastly different from those of steam roads, it is said.

The hours of service act provides that no trainman or operator, dispatcher or other employee of stations who has anything to do with the giving out or execution of train orders shall be required or permitted to be on duty for a longer period than nine hours in any twenty-four hour period.

It further provides that such employees shall not be on duty longer than thirteen hours in stations open only in the daytime. One exception is made, however, and in case of emergency the employee may remain on duty for four additional hours in a twenty-four hour period on not exceeding three days in any week.

John M. Schenck, Fountaintown, Ind., recommends Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. He says "I was troubled with asthma about four years, so bad I could not sleep. I took everything I heard of for asthma and doctored also but got no relief until I tried Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It helped me from the first dose, and the continued use cured me. It is now a long time since I was cured, and I have no symptoms of a return of the disease." F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

Besides Mr. Henry the committee members are C. D. Emmons, South Bend, general manager of the Chicago, South Bend & Northern Indiana Traction Company, and W. G. Irwin, Columbus, president of the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction company.

The question to be discussed before the commission is whether the nine-hour law which governs the

A wonderfully prophetic fiction story written fourteen years ago of the wreck of the TITAN, which, like the Titanic, was the world's largest and most palatial vessel and generally regarded as unsinkable and indestructible. Like the Titanic, too, the TITAN was wrecked by an iceberg in the month of April when speeding along the northern lane route of the Atlantic. The wreck in

CHAPTER I.

The Unsinkable Titan.

HE was the largest craft afloat and the greatest of the works of men. In her construction and maintenance were involved every science, profession and trade known to civilization. On her bridge were officers, who, besides being the pick of the royal navy, had passed rigid examinations in all studies that pertained to the winds, tides, currents and geography of the sea. They were not only seamen, but scientists. The same professional standard applied to the personnel of the engine room, and the steward's department was equal to that of a first class hotel.

Two brass bands, two orchestras and a theatrical company entertained the passengers during waking hours, a corps of physicians administered to the temporal and a corps of chaplains to the spiritual welfare of all on board, while a well drilled fire company soothed the fears of nervous ones and added to the general entertainment by daily practice with their apparatus.

From her lofty bridge ran hidden telegraph lines to the bow, stern, engine room, crow's nest on the foremast and to all parts of the ship where work was done, each wire terminating in a marked dial with a movable indicator containing in its scope every order and answer required in handling the massive bulk, either at the dock or at sea, which eliminated to a great extent the boarose, nerve racking shunts of officers and sailors.

From the bridge, engine room and a dozen places on her deck the ninety-two doors of nineteen water tight compartments could be closed in half a minute by turning a lever. These doors would also close automatically in the presence of water. With nine compartments flooded the ship would still float, and as no known accident of the sea could possibly fill this many the steamship Titan was considered practically unsinkable.

Built of steel throughout and for passenger traffic only, she carried no combustible cargo to threaten her destruction by fire, and the immunity from the demand for cargo space had enabled her designers to discard the flat, kettle bottom of cargo boats and give her the sharp dead rise—or slant from the keel—of a steam yacht, and this improved her behavior in a seaway. She was 800 feet long, of 70,000 tons displacement, 40,000 horsepower, and on her trial trip had steamed at a rate of twenty-five knots an hour over the bottom, in the face of unconsidered winds, tides and currents. In short, she was a floating city, containing within her steel walls all that tends to minimize the dangers and discomforts of the Atlantic voyage, all that makes life enjoyable.

Unsinkable, indestructible, she carried as few boats as would satisfy the laws. These, twenty-four in number, were securely covered and lashed down to their chocks on the upper deck, and if launched would hold 500 people. She carried no useless, cumbersome life rafts, but, because the law required it, each of the 3,000 berths in the passengers', officers' and crew's quarters contained a cork jacket, while about twenty circular life buoys were strewn along the rails.

In view of her absolute superiority to other craft, a rule of navigation thoroughly believed in by some captains, but not yet openly followed, was announced by the steamship company to apply to the Titan. She would steam at full speed in fog, storm and sunshine and on the northern lane the fiction story happened in about the same place that the Titanic disaster occurred, and there were not sufficient life boats and rafts to take off the passengers and crew. Read and you will see that there are many other remarkable and startling coincidences between the wreck of the TITAN, the largest steamship of the world of fiction, and the wreck of the Titanic, the largest steamship of the material world.

with paint buckets and brushes and distributed themselves along the rail.

"Davits an' stanchions, men—never mind the rail," said the boatswain. "Ladies, better move your chairs back a little. Rowland, climb down out o' that; you'll be overboard. Take a ventilator. No; you'll spill paint. Put your bucket away an' get some sandpaper from the yeoman. Work inboard till you get it out o' you."

The sailor addressed, a slight built man of about thirty, black bearded and bronzed to the semblance of healthy vigor, but watery eyed and unsteady of movement, came down from the rail and stumbled forward with his bucket. As he reached the group of ladies to whom the boatswain had spoken his gaze rested on one, a sunny-haired young woman with the blue of the sea in her eyes, who had arisen at his approach. He started, turned aside as if to avoid her, and, raising his hand in an embarrassed half salute, passed on. Out of the boatswain's sight he leaned against the deck house and panted, while he held his hand to his breast.

"What is it?" he muttered wearily—"whisky nerves or the dying flutter of a starved love? Five years now and a look from her eyes can stop the blood in my veins—can bring back all the heart hunger and helplessness that lead a man to insanity—or this."

He looked at his trembling hand, all seamed and tan stained, passed on forward and returned with the sandpaper.

The young woman had been equally affected by the meeting. An expression of mingled surprise and terror had come to her pretty but rather weak face, and with acknowledging his half salute she had caught up a little child from the deck behind her and, turning into the saloon door, hurried to the library, where she sank into a chair beside a military looking gentleman, who glanced up from a book and remarked: "Seen the sea serpent, Myra, or the Flying Dutchman? What's up?"

"Oh, George—no!" she answered in agitated tones. "John Rowland is here—Lieutenant Rowland. I've just seen him; he is so changed; he tried to speak to me."

"Who—that troublesome flame of yours? I never met him, you know, and you haven't told me much about him. What is he—first cabin?"

"No; he seems to be a common sailor. He is working and is dressed in old clothes, all dirty. And such a dis-sipated face too. He seems to have fallen—so low. And it is all since—

"Since you soured on him? Well, it is no fault of yours, dear. If a man has it in him he'll go to the dogs any-how. How is his sense of injury? Has he a grievance or a grudge? You are badly upset. What did he say?"

"I don't know. He said nothing. I've always been afraid of him. I've met him three times since then, and he puts such a frightful look in his eyes—and he was so violent and headstrong and so terribly angry that time. He accused me of leading him on and playing with him, and he said something about an immutable law of chance and a governing balance of events that I couldn't understand, only where he said that for all the suffering we inflict on others we receive an equal amount ourselves. Then he went away in such a passion. I've imagined ever since that he would take some revenge. He might steal our Myra—our baby!" She strained the smiling child to her breast and went on. "I liked him at first, until I found out that he was an atheist. Why, George, he actually denied the existence of God and to me, a professing Christian."

"He had a wonderful nerve," said the husband, with a smile. "Didn't know you very well, I should say."

"He never seemed the same to me after that," she resumed. "I felt as though in the presence of something unclean. Yet I thought how glorious it would be if I could save him to God and tried to convince him of the loving care of Jesus, but he only ridiculed all I hold sacred and said that much as he valued my good opinion he would not be hypocrite to gain it and that he would be honest with himself and others and express his honest unbelief—the idea! As though one could be honest without God's help—and then one day I smelled liquor on his breath—he always smelled of tobacco—and I gave him up. It was then that he—that he broke out."

"Come out and show me this repro-bate," said the husband, rising. They went to the door and the young woman peered out. "He is the last man down there—close to the cabin," she said as she drew in. The husband stepped out.

"What? That hangdog ruffian scouring the ventilator? So that's Rowland of the navy, is it? Well, this is a tumb-ble. Wasn't he broken for conduct unbecoming an officer? Got roaring drunk at the president's levee, didn't he? I think I read of it."

"I know he lost his position and was terribly disgraced," answered the wife.

"Well, Myra, the poor devil is harm-less now. We'll be across in a few days, and you needn't meet him on this broad deck. If he hasn't lost all sensibility he's as embarrassed as you. Better stay in now. It's getting foggy."

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by All Dealers.

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure that is what he needs." Sold by All Dealers.

RENEWED DAMAGE IN THE FLOODED DISTRICT

Army Authorities Report the Situation Alarming.

Washington, May 1.—Following heavy rains and another rise in the rivers, the record breaking flood of the Mississippi and tributaries has suddenly taken on a more serious aspect.

Army officers, who are stationed all along the Mississippi from St. Louis to New Orleans and for some distance up some of the tributaries, report to the war department that renewed damage already is developing in some of the levees and further destruction of property throughout the valleys is threatened. Approximately $300,000 has been expended up to date in finding the refugees.

The heavy rains in the Ohio, Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys during the last week has brought the water back to high stage at Hickman, Mo., Memphis and Helena, and rises are reported all the way down to the gulf. The situation is reported from Memphis as critical and there is urgent need of supplies. Since this is the worst and most disastrous general flood situation in the history of the country, the army authorities estimate that the cost to the government accordingly will be beyond precedent.

THE MACKAY-BENNETT PUTS IN AT HALIFAX

Many Bodies of Titanic Victims Brought Back.

Halifax, N. S., May 1.—As the Mackay-Bennett, her after deck piled high with coffins and her forward deck with unshrouded bodies, grim relics of the Titanic, lying two deep, approached her moorings, the church and fire bells began their solemn tolling. Not more than a score of people saw the bodies carried off the ship to the pier by bareheaded sailors who rapidly and silently transferred the bodies to the big squad of undertakers. Never before was the dockyard so carefully guarded. Soldiers were on the roofs of the departmental buildings within the walls and on every eminence patrolling with special instructions to stop every attempt at photographing. It is doubtful if a single picture was taken. A Halifax photographer who joined forces with three Americans who sought to take pictures was caught, his camera confiscated and his film destroyed.

The fact that many of the bodies that had been recovered had been re-committed to the deep, is a sad disappointment for some. This was illustrated in the case of friends of George D. Widener and Fred Sutton of Philadelphia, who had long been here waiting for their bodies, had to be told that they were among those who had been re-committed to the waters. Among the bodies restored to waiting friends were those of M. C. Long, F. D. Millet, E. C. Ostby, Colonel Astor, Isidor Straus, C. Rosenshine, W. D. Douglas, W. V. Vanderhaef, H. J. Allison and E. C. Crosby.

Doors, chairs and wood from the Titanic were found spread over thirty miles, said Captain Lardner, who said his opinion was that the bulk of the bodies went down with the ship. Although the bodies of eighteen women had been recovered, not one female first-class passenger's body had been recovered. The list of identified dead reported by Captain Lardner number fifty-six. He had 190 bodies on board and buried 116 at sea. A wireless dispatch from the cable steamer Minia, now searching for bodies of the Titanic's victims, says that the Minia's captain thinks that the rest of the bodies have been swept too far east by the gulf stream for the Minia to find them. He had recovered only fourteen bodies. According to the latest figures the number of bodies recovered from the sea is 320.

BAY STATE GAVE PLUMS TO BOTH

Divided Delegation Returned By Republicans.

SERIOUS POLITICAL BLUNDER

Though Carrying State by Plurality of Probably 5,000, Mr. Taft Lost Delegates-at-Large Through Confusion Arising From the Presence of an Interloper's Name on Ticket—District Delegations Divided.

Boston, May 1.—By a plurality of from 2,000 to 5,000, William H. Taft appears today to have been the popular choice for the Republican nomination for president over Colonel Roosevelt in Massachusetts's first presidential primary held Tuesday. Owing to the presence on the ballot of nine names for delegates-at-large, all pledged to Taft, the regular slate, headed by Senator W. Murray Crane and former Governor John L. Bates, appears to have been defeated, but the eight alternates are probably successful.

Taft delegates have been elected in the First, Second, Third, Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth congressional districts. The Ninth district chose Roosevelt delegates by a margin of 100 votes, which means a recount. The Fourteenth district went to Roosevelt. The remaining six districts are in doubt with the outlook favorable to the editorial at this writing.

The Roosevelt victory in the matter of delegates-at-large was due to the name of Frank Seiberlich being sandwiched in on the ballot between Group 1, consisting of eight names pledged to Roosevelt as delegates-at-large, and Group 2, comprising eight names pledged to Taft. Seiberlich was also pledged to Taft, but his name on the ballot caused endless confusion and substantial loss for the Taft delegates. In nearly all the voting places Taft delegate ballots were invalidated by voters marking for Seiberlich as well as for the eight regular candidates. In each case the Taft preferential vote was counted, but the vote for his delegation was thrown out. The voters, in their haste, neglected to heed the instructions to vote for eight and marked every name pledged to Taft.

Seiberlich is the proprietor of a hotel in Forest Hills and was formerly a Republican state senator. In selecting eight candidates for delegates-at-large the Taft people passed him by and the story is that he was so indignant that he decided to be on the ballot at all costs. He had no difficulty in securing the 250 names necessary to secure the printing of his name on the ballot, and the secretary of state called it Group 2, placing it between the Roosevelt candidates and the Taft regulars. Had the name gone at the bottom it probably would not have caused any trouble, at least not enough to have defeated the regulars. It was a serious mistake on the part of the Taft managers not to have secured his withdrawal.

Champ Clark won in a canter over Wilson, and La Follette was scarcely heard from. The speaker of the house beat the governor of New Jersey by 8,500 in Boston, but in the west of the state it was not quite as bad. The vote was light all over the state, probably not more than 40 or 45 per cent of the total strength of the state being cast, despite the strenuous cam-

Mrs. Blanch Wolverton Given $20 in Agreement For Support Until Divorce Suit is Heard.

RESTRAINING ORDER IN EFFECT

Jury Returns Verdict For P. A. Miller in Damage Suit Brought by Lottie Herkless.

The petition of Mrs. Blanch Wolverton for an allowance and restraining order against her husband, Clayton Wolverton, to restrain him from kidnapping their four-year-old daughter, Ettarhea, who is in the custody of the mother, was compromised in court this morning before the argument on the petition for a hearing.

It was agreed by the attorneys on both sides that the defendant should allow his wife twenty dollars for support until the divorce suit, filed Saturday evening, comes up for a hearing, and it is decided who shall have the custody of the children. Mrs. Wolverton asks the custody of her daughter only. The temporary restraining order, which was granted Mrs. Wolverton Monday morning by Judge Blair, was continued by the court until the case comes up for trial.

Attorneys argued the case of George Erdman, trustee in bankruptcy for James W. Craig of Greensburg against the Greensburg National bank, to recover a preferential payment in the sum of $2,345, this afternoon. The evidence in the case was heard last Friday. The suit was sent here from Decatur county on a change of venue.

The jury in the case of Lottie Herkless of Center township against P. A. Miller of this city for five thousand dollars damages for injuries received when her horse frightened at the defendant's automobile at the Galloway hill, north of Carthage, July 25, 1909, and pulled their buggy down a steep embankment, found for the defendant this morning, failing to give the plaintiff any damages whatever.

The argument in the case was finished late yesterday afternoon and the jury returned this morning to be instructed by the court. The jury went out with the case about nine o'clock and in three-quarters of an hour came in with a verdict. They had failed to answer the interrogatories of the court, however, and Judge Blair sent them back for that purpose.

At eleven o'clock the jury came in with a verdict for the defendant. There is no likelihood that an attempt will be made to appeal the case, according to attorneys for the plaintiff. Lewis Eakin of Center township was foreman of the jury.

In instructing the jury Judge Blair pointed out that this case was an action for negligence, and that the plaintiff could not recover damages unless injuries complained of were proximately caused by the negligence of the defendant, as alleged in the complaint. It was explained that a person of ordinary experience could foresee that result complained of might ensue therefrom.

Two paragraphs of the instructions were in regard to the use of public highways. All persons using highways, it was pointed out, to have equal rights and one in an automobile must have regard for others and consider the propensity of an automobile for frightening horses.

NAMES WATSON

found happy solution in the nomination of James A. Garfield.

Should such a condition arise, as appears by no means unlikely, the Beacon will take pleasure in seconding with much enthusiasm, a suggestion by Hon W. R. McKeen of Terre Haute, that Indiana can supply an ideal compromise candidate, in the person of James E. Watson of Rushville, former member of congress and candidate for governor in 1908. Mr. Watson is in every respect, of full presidential size. During his incumbency in congress, he won recognition as one of the big men of the house and his contributions to running debates on the floor were always marked by a depth of insight, a breadth of information, a readiness of wit and a wealth of logic, which commanded nation wide attention and respect. Mr. Watson would bring as assets to a national campaign, an equipment, to which brains, good judgment, comparative youth and a forceful winning personality, would be largely contributing factors. His leadership in the fight would be an inspiration and there is no man among all the wealth of good material at the command of the Republican party, who is in better position to weld the divided and discordant household of the Republican faith, into an aggressive and irresistible fighting entity.

The Beacon is moved in this matter by no sentiment of disloyalty to President Taft. It hopes to see him nominated and elected, but should the Roosevelt candidacy complicate matters to such an extent that this shall appear to be impossible, it is well that some earnest thought be given to the best alternative course to pursue. That the situation will in the end work itself out satisfactorily, this paper is still inclined to believe, for the Republican party has always proved big enough and brainy enough to fight its battles, both within and without the ranks, to a triumphant issue. As a closing thought we can present nothing better than is afforded in the words of Mr. McKeen, who says:

"This matter will not be settled until the delegates gather at Chicago. The Republican party has a great history and it is an organization that one man can not wreck. The sober second judgment of the party leaders will obtain in the end and it goes without saying that in their wisdom they will decide for the party as a whole rather than for or against individuals."
